INTRODUCTION

These are the Rules of the Performance Rating Licence schemes operated by British Fenestration Rating Council Limited (“BFRC”). BFRC is a wholly owned subsidiary of The GGF Group. Please note: Approved Businesses participating in the schemes are not shareholders in BFRC or The GGF Group.

The BFRC Schemes have been developed to license the use of performance rating certificates and associated labels in order to demonstrate the performance of fenestration products sold for installation within the UK and Ireland. They are designed to allow consumers to easily compare the relative performance of fenestration products and in some cases, such as energy, can be accepted as a means of demonstrating compliance with Building Regulations.

BFRC is established to issue performance rating licences and maintain procedures under which Approved Businesses are permitted to apply the BFRC rating mark to their products. BFRC also approves simulator operatives to enable them to carry out calculations for the purposes of the BFRC Energy Rating Scheme. In addition, BFRC carries out inspections and other measures to ensure the compliance by Approved Businesses with these Rules.

BFRC offers the following four categories of registration under the BFRC Scheme:

- Fabricator
- System House
- Approved Installer
- Approved Simulator

Note: The BFRC Energy Rating Scheme requires all energy calculations to be carried out by BFRC Approved Simulators. Approved Simulators are required to enter into a separate Approved Simulator Agreement with BFRC.

These Rules constitute a binding agreement between BFRC and each Approved Business.

- 1.1.12 submit to BFRC a written application for certification to become an Approved Business using the Application Form specified by BFRC from time to time;

- 1.2.7 To use only BFRC Approved Simulators for the production of energy ratings applications to BFRC.
